THE KALAMAZOO BACH FESTIVAL
To create, enrich, and transform community through singing.

We are committed to sustainable and relevant programming, becoming actively involved in the community with social justice initiatives, increasing diversity with the staff, board, and chorus, creating an equitable organization, and creating a concert experience accessible to the entire community. The Kalamazoo Bach Festival sees profound relevance in civic engagement, connecting music and the arts with community efforts to demonstrate love and commitment to our community.

A land acknowledgment is a formal statement that recognizes and respects Indigenous peoples as stewards of the land and the enduring relationship – historical and current – that exists between Indigenous peoples and their territories. Such statements are made routinely as a matter of protocol at public gatherings.

We align with these beliefs and with Kalamazoo College’s Land Acknowledgement statement:

We gather on the land of the Council of the Three Fires – the Ojibwe, the Odawa, and the Potawatomi. Indigenous nations of the Great Lakes region are also known as the Anishinaabe (Ah-nish-nah-bay), or original people, and their language is Anishinaabemowin (Ah-nish-nah-bay-mow-in). We acknowledge the enduring relationship that exists between the People of the Three Fires and this land.

We believe in the transformational power of music. It is our hope that you will leave this experience with a greater sense of curiosity, empathy, and optimism.

Thank you for joining us this evening.
– Jason Max Ferdinand
The Jason Max Ferdinand Singers was founded in 2021, by conductor, composer and author—Jason Max Ferdinand. This malleable ensemble contains some of the best professional arrangers, conductors, composers, vocalists, and multi-instrumentalists in the United States. The Jason Max Ferdinand Singers are on a mission to promote black excellence through choral literature of contrasting styles, as well as advocate towards unity and diversity amongst the United States and internationally.

It is hard to believe that over a year ago, this ‘ensemble of extraordinary talents’ had only just been birthed. Through the calamities brought about by the pandemic and the recurrent social injustices happening around the world, it has truly been a shaky way for us to begin. However, these events have given us the unique opportunity for growth, adaptation, and perseverance to overcome whatever may befall us. One of the main goals from the genesis of this group, was to bring...
‘Solace’ to a world that seems as if it will never stop shaking. The Jason Max Ferdinand Singers, I believe, have accomplished this goal exceedingly.

This year, undoubtedly, will be a pivotal season for the ensemble. Each concert so far brings a distinct musical flavor that changes every time we perform. We have brought even more extraordinary musicians on board, and we cannot wait for them to share their talents with you this season. We will be featuring new repertoire this season, and featuring new pieces by our composers-in-residence. Our eyes are set on our concert for the National Conference of the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA) in February. Amongst many other events on our calendar, we were invited to sing for ACDA-North Carolina as well, and for this we are humbled. The evolution of the Jason Max Ferdinand Singers will continue this season “from Solace to…” It is with gratitude and humility that I bring to you these talented singers who breathe life into the works of outstanding composers, as we all move forward in this ever-changing world. - Jason Max Ferdinand
